GCA Minutemen shoot down Eagles and advance to GCAA State Tournament

by Lee Christensen

The Greenville Christian Academy (GCA) Varsity boys' basketball team hosted the Tabernacle Christian Academy Eagles from McDonough, Georgia, in the qualifying round of the GCAA State Tournament on Saturday. Fresh off an undefeated regular conference season, the Minutemen were ranked second in the state and were then slated to play the seventh ranked Tabernacle Eagles. A Minutemen win in this qualifying game meant a trip to the state playoffs for the second consecutive year.

Right off the opening tip, the Minutemen picked up right where they had left off in the regular season. An up-tempo attack, domination in the paint, and sound perimeter shooting led to a 31-point first quarter for GCA. The Eagles were also forced into foul trouble. At the end of the first half, the score

Handy Kennedy Named Soil And Water Conservationist Of The Year

by Misty Calhoun

Handy Kennedy of Oglethorpe was named Soil and Water Conservationist of the Year for Tattnall County at the 49th annual Oglethorpe River Soil and Water Conservation (ORSWC) Banquet held Thursday, February 3, 2000.

Crowds of surrounding citizens, local banks and leading institutions, and members of ORSWC gathered to honor a cooperative from each county of the district who has attained high standards of excellence in soil and water conservation.

John Cheney, Executive Director of the Tattnall County Development Authority, welcomed the crowd that gathered at the Tattnall County High School Cafeteria. Lavada Lyne, Tattnall County District Supervisor, recognized visitors and past Conservationists prior to honoring Dil Canady of WTDC with the Outstanding New Media Award.

Handy Kennedy was announced as Conservationist of the Year by Billy Patterson, Vice President of Motor Banking Company.

Mr. Kennedy and his sons, Charles, Ben, and Mike, were recognized for efforts and practices in preserving the soil and water by rotating crops and grazing, maintaining soil pH and fertility, and using chicken litter and planting peanuts to add in fertility and quality forage of crops and grazing. In addition to the preservation of other conservation practices.

Other farmers who received Conservationist of the Year were: DuBois - Robert Franklin of Rogers; Canady - Laila Calhoun of Motter; Elvingham - Thomas B. Rahn, Jr.; Evans -

Jimmy Rogers of Claxton; and Scurry - Michael Scurry.

Honorary Charles Williams lifted the crowd with laughter and a few musical ideas. The evening was highlighted with Williams performing Ray Stevens' songs and selecting various farmers and attendees to sing "Old MacDonald." Williams closed by reminding everyone to laugh and live in JOY (Jesus first, others second, and yourself last).

Williams and his wife, Charlotte, live on a 2200-acre row crop and timber farm in Chamblee, Georgia. They have two sons, Chris, 22, and Clint, 20. New project to address unmet needs of seniors Georgia Southern University's College of Health and Professional Studies is conducting research to help identify the unmet needs of the elderly in Bulloch, Evans, Screven, and Talbot counties. The initiative will include interviews with senior citizens, discussions with key community leaders and experts in the field of aging, as well as focus groups and a special toll-free telephone number that has recently been created.

Area residents can now call 1-800-838-3383 to help identify any unmet needs they perceive in their home county. After hearing a pre-recorded message, callers can easily identify any unmet needs in their community. This information will be combined with the other research to develop strategies for improved services.

"While the major goal of this project is to identify unmet needs, the project will also work to identify the programs that are in place and work well to serve seniors," said College of Health and Professional Studies Dean Fred White. "So many people in our community are challenged by issues that affect seniors, and, through this effort, we hope we can make a difference," he said.

This research is funded with a $18,800 grant from the International Capital Assistance Partnership Project in the University's College of Business Administration. ICAPP promotes such efforts that can identify regional needs that ultimately lead to the development of new jobs.

For more information about the project, call the College of Health and Professional Studies at (912) 681-5322 or Georgia Southern University's Office of Research and Sponsored Programs at (912) 681-5465. The toll-free number to identify unmet needs of seniors is 1-800-838-3383.

Sue's Say So about Valentines

by Sue Page

Valentines are about love...love about someone close to our heart. I could tell you a volume about my hill, about my daughter, my grandchildren, my great-grandchildren, my family members, brothers, and sisters, especially my little brother. This is a valentine for all the brothers in the world who don't know exactly what to say to their big sisters. Here is one that says it all.

You are Love on Valentine's Day

As a baby, you diapered me. You taught me how to walk, and then would search for me and bring me home. You taught me how to talk, and then would listen to my endless chatter. You walked me to school after you had already taught me how to read and write. You taught me how to ride a bike and protected me from school bullies. You were my advocate and my defender. Even when wrong, nobody better utter a critical word to you about me.

As a young man, you taught me that courtesy, kindness, and good manners were requirements in being a gentleman. And that being a gentleman was far more important than a touchdown run or a report card (filled with all "A's"). You loaned me $175 to buy my first car and forgave me for wrecking your new one.

Each year as I prepared to return to college, you took me shopping and made sure I had a "ditty bag" full of goodies. Then you attended each graduation. You stood steadfast with me through my marriage, the birth of my children, then my painful divorce. You praised me during each step of my career and did not "lose me to the job" during bankruptcies and poor times. You have encouraged me to achieve and to contribute to our human family.

You have taught me what "love" truly can be and is. So, on St. Valentine's Day when love is celebrated, I celebrate YOU. If I am destined to return to earth as a woman, a love bug, or again as a human, my hope and prayer is: "God, please make sure I have you as my big sister. I love you."

Paul

Six resign from Tattnall Memorial Hospital Authority

submit my resignation tonight," said Ms. Armstrong. "I feel that the commissioners should have the pleasure of completing the closure since their actions have reflected their lack of interest in keeping the hospital viable. At this point, as a board member, I am functionally obsolete."

Billy Smith and Charlotte Long-Speer followed Armstrong's resignation with their own.

Tattnall County Commissioner Chairman Jerry W. Burkhalter, Hospital Authority member and appointee from County Commissioners, did not voice an opinion either way.

Harold Brown, newly elected to the Hospital Authority, did not submit a resignation.

Joey Singleton was the fourth to give his verbal resignation from the board.

"We are selected to be on the board by the commissioners. But we don't have the authority to remedy our situation," he said.

Val Durrence also submitted her resignation, feeling that it was a conflict of interest (as a Memorial Hospital employee) and in her best interest to resign.

Hospital Authority Chairman T. C. Rogers was the last to submit his resignation. He has also been on the board the longest (25 years) almost since the beginning of the hospital.

Miriam Lynn was the only Hospital Authority member not present at the meeting and has not yet notified the hospital of a resignation.

The resignations were submitted as an attempt to force the commissioners' hands and to let the decision to close the hospital rest with them.

According to the bylaws of the Hospital Authority, the County Commissioners must submit three names for each vacancy on the hospital board to be voted upon by the Hospital Authority or declined and then resubmitted by the County Commissioners (either the same three names or a new set of three names).

Five Hospital Authority members must be present for a quorum, according to the bylaws. With only three remaining currently, the Hospital Authority is unable to vote on any decisions concerning the hospital.

The decision to submit resignations came after tears were shed and every possible avenue of financial stability had been exhausted.

"We are short $62,000 for the upcoming payroll (February 18) and I cannot in good conscience ask the employees to continue to work when I know we won't be able to pay them," said Don Tomberlin, a representative of Memorial Health, in the session before the resignations.

"I have committed to the employees that we will not face another payroll where we can't pay them," he said.

The urgency for funding came as a result of the Tattnall County Commissioners again turning down a proposal by the Tattnall Memorial Hospital Authority at a called meeting held last Wednesday, February 2.

Don Tomberlin and Hospital Administrator Jim Reilly presented the proposal that would call for the county commissioners to guarantee a $3 million dollar loan borrowed by the hospital from a group of local lenders (banks). The proposed loan would have terms of interest only due for the first year, and would amortize the principle over a 20-year term after the first year, with monthly payments of approximately $20,000.

The principle and interest payments for this loan would be paid from the revenue received by Tattnall Memorial Hospital under a proposed new contract with the Board of Commissioners for the provision of indigent care, in the amount of approximately $20,000 per month, for a term of 21 years.

Under this proposal, the hospital would be receiving the same level of funds historically provided by the county and therefore should not require an increase in taxes.

If, for some reason, following the loan, the hospital still could not sustain itself and defaulted, the sale of all of the buildings, land, and fixtures used as collateral, would offset the remaining debt guaranteed by the commissioners, thus leaving the county with a much lower debt to face.

The motion was made by Commissioner Pat Easterling. "I make a motion the Tattnall County Board of Commissioners do not accept this proposal by the Tattnall Memorial Hospital Authority."

The second was given by Commissioner Edward Kennedy and a delayed but unanimous approval was given by each of the remaining commissioners.

"We have gone to the commissioners with plan after plan after plan and have struck out every time," said Van Cheney, Attorney for the Hospital Authority.

"The one thing they said they wanted was a proposal that would not have a tax increase and we were able to provide that," said Joey Singleton.

Don Tomberlin

"They have violated our trust. We gave them an option that didn't call for a tax increase and they turned us down again."

Wednesday night's decision by the commissioners came after several questions of legality with the proposal argued by attorneys Van Cheney and Joe McGovern (representing the County).

Cheney suggested that the commissioners vote regardless of the outcome of the question of legality and that if in fact it was deemed illegal that the proposal be null and void.

Commissioner Bill Kicklighter voiced his concern over the interest rates for the next 21 years and whether or not $240,000 would be enough to satisfy the monthly payments due on the loan. The proposal was drafted with the consideration of the probable interest rates worked up by County Manager Gene Crape.

Finally the question of assurance of self-sufficiency for the hospital to continue to operate without the need for additional funds for the next 21 years was also a concern by the commissioners.

Tomberlin had answered the question with "no."

"The guarantee of self-sufficiency is a ridiculous question for anyone to ask of a business and if they are truthful, is an impossible question to answer," said Joey Singleton at Monday's Hospital Authority meeting.

Several hospital employees were also in attendance periodically at the hospital authority meeting.

"We don't know what the commissioners want us to do," said Beth Durrence. "We will do anything to help this hospital and many of our employees who have resigned would be more than willing to come back to work if they had some kind of assurance that the funds were available."

"There are all kinds of services in government that don't make money such as the ambulance, 911, library, fire department, and so on," she said. "Your community needs a hospital."

Questions on the commissioners' motives concerning the prior decline of the proposal and what they wanted in order for a proposal to work were fired at Tattnall County Commissioner Chairman Jerry W. Burkhalter, who is also on the Hospital Authority.

"I don't have all the answers to the commissioners' decisions," said Burkhalter. "I feel strongly enough about the hospital that if we had a private investment company, I'd put $100,000 in it myself."

"I have taken a lot of heat here tonight, more than I ever will again. I won't be back again to a Hospital Authority meeting under these conditions," he said.

Although all of the commissioners were invited to attend the meeting, each of them had expressed prior commitments for the evening.

At one point in Monday evening's meeting around 9:30 p.m., Ellen Armstrong phoned Commissioner Bill Kicklighter and asked him again to come to the meeting. He replied that it would be an illegal meeting with only two or three commissioners in attendance with business being discussed and he would not be able to come.

A phone call was also made by Armstrong to Commissioner Pat Easterling who replied that he was sorry but he would not be coming to the meeting.

No other commissioners were called during the meeting.

"Ellen had implied that she would be calling all of the commissioners," said Bill Kicklighter. "Everyone had an opportunity to voice their opinions earlier that same day at our regular Commissioners' meeting."

Dr. Karen Minyard, who had been meeting with Tomberlin and Reilly throughout the day concerning the hospital's critical situation, Hospital Authority.

Dr. Minyard is employed with the Georgia State Health Policy Group.

"Once the hospital closes, if it does, it would be very costly, if not nearly impossible, to reopen," said Dr. Minyard.

"My wish for you is that your county would give you a little more time to smooth the transition for whatever takes place with the hospital," she said.

Dr. Minyard offered to secure help for the hospital with information and technical assistance for whatever direction the Hospital Authority decides to take.

The possibility of closure of Tattnall Memorial was more like a probability at Monday evening's meeting after Tomberlin voiced his opinion that they had researched every available option remaining for the hospital's financial future.

Following the motion to reject the debt restructuring proposal last Wednesday night, Tomberlin submitted a letter to the commissioners calling for them to consider a millage assessment of 3 mills to cover providing medical care to indigent patients at Tattnall Memorial Hospital. (The contract with the commissioners for indigent care expired a year and a half ago and, according to Tomberlin, the Hospital Authority has the legal option to request up to 7 mills.)

Currently one mill in Tattnall is approximately $220,000. Indigent care at the hospital costs around $400,000 to $500,000 per year.

The letter submitted was not voted on by the commissioners Wednesday night and delayed for review until the regular County Commissioners' meeting held Monday morning, February 7.

However, because of lack of clarity on how the hospital wanted to proceed for a formal referendum request, the letter was again held without a vote.

Two options are available to proceed: either propose a millage request at three public forums held throughout the county over a period of three weeks, or call for a county referendum to put it before the voters. The deadline to get on the July ballot is April 20.

"We can put it in a request for millage consideration but we can not require them to grant it to us," said Van Cheney. "If the county doesn't approve to put it on the ballot, then it doesn't go anywhere."

"We depend on them (the commissioners) for membership on this board, millage, and financial support, etc.," said Joey Singleton. "We have attempted to meet their requirements and this is supposed to be a partnership. In my opinion we should just drop the idea of a county referendum because the commissioners have turned down our other proposals and probably will not support us on this either."

"If the hospital closes, it will never have a chance of succeeding by a referendum," said Cheney. "At least if it was opened during the time, we would at least have a fair chance. You can not even have public hearings on the millage request without the commissioners' approval."

The motion was made by Joey Singleton. "I hereby recommend we not entertain a county referendum," Charlotte Long-Speer gave a second and it was unanimously approved by the board.

On a slightly brighter note, the hospital did make some money in November and December and January looked to be a much better month financially, said Tomberlin. However the money is expected to filter in through the next few weeks and will not be able to eliminate the current requirements to meet payroll next week.

"The numbers on the books are on an accrual basis, not cash basis as we need to pay our employees with," said Tomberlin.

"We have received four letters of interest from outside parties if the hospital is put up for sale," he said. However, they require the county to absorb the current debts and it is expensive to have them come in and purchase the hospital, he said.

"We have worked out agreements with other hospitals in the area to transfer our patients if the hospital is going to close," said Tomberlin.

"We are still getting personal checks from citizens but it's not enough. We are talking about thousands of dollars we need right now," he said.

Even to close the hospital would be an expensive and lengthy process.

Staff would be needed to keep the building secure and to see about patient records and accounts receivable.

"It looks like we're so broke that we can't even close," said T. C. Rogers, Chairman of the Hospital Authority.

Following a closed session and as their last official action as an authority before their resignations, the board voted to allow Van Cheney to explore the possibility of filing for a Chapter 9 Bankruptcy. The vote was unanimous with the exception of Val Durrence, who abstained due to her conflict of interest as a Memorial employee.

Cheney will consult with other attorneys to see if the Chapter 9 would be a viable solution to the hospital situation.

In a phone interview Tuesday evening, Jerry W. Burkhalter said that the commissioners were seeking to fill two positions on the Hospital Authority as soon as possible so that business could continue to be conducted with the five person minimum quorum.

He chose Ms. Gail Clark as his STAR Teacher. Ms. Clark taught Chris American Literature his junior year.

The Student Teacher Achievement Recognition (STAR) Program, in its 42nd year, is sponsored by the Professional Association of Georgia Educators (PAGE) Foundation, the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, and the Georgia Department of Education. Since its inception, the STAR Program has honored more than 17,000 students and the teachers they have selected as having had the most influence on their academic achievement. Students are selected on the basis of their SAT scores and class standing/scholastic averages.

STAR begins each year in participating high schools throughout Georgia when the STAR Student is named and chooses a STAR teacher to share in his or her recognition. The students and their teachers are honored by their schools and receive special recognition in their communities from more than 200 statewide civic organizations and businesses that sponsor local programs. Students then compete for district and state honors. Students and teachers chosen for the State awards will be honored at the State STAR Banquet in Atlanta on May 4. Above the Rim Hoop Highlights

by William Carwell

The Warriors lost their last regular season game to Richmond Hill 55 to 47 last Friday night. The loss assured the Warriors of the third seed heading into the Sub-region tournament this week in Sylva. The game was very sluggish in the first half as both teams struggled to find any groove on offense. The Wildcats led 17-14 at the intermission.

Things really heated up in the second half as Richmond Hill built their lead up to 11 points, before Tattnall cut it to two with only two minutes remaining. But the battle tested Wildcats didn't flinch and hit 7 of 10 free throws down the stretch to preserve the win. Final sub-region standings are as follows.

Arson alleged in Claxton Poultry blaze

Employees returned to work Tuesday with "minimum interruption," company officials declare.

By Claxton Oliver

A fire that swept through parts of Claxton Poultry Friday night, February 4, temporarily halting operations, was more eye-popping to spectators than damaging to the corporation. Flames that started in a box storage area leaped as high as 40 ft. at times, and fire-fighting squads from 13 cities battled the blaze from 8 p.m. until after midnight. Damage to the affected building was less than 20 percent and was confined to non-critical areas, officials said. Original estimates placed the damage much higher, but the box room suffered "extensive" harm, officials said.

"All employees are back at work," a company official declared. "About 100 of our people worked through the weekend, helping outside workers to get us ready to open this morning (Monday). They were paid for their work," he added. "Three shifts were lost during the weekend."

Mark Bland, Director of Human Resources for Claxton Poultry, said an accurate estimate of the amount of damage is not yet available. "Adjusters, contractors, and the State Insurance Director's Office are working on an estimate. It will be 'several million,'" Bland said.

The early-evening fire has been determined to be the work of an arsonist or arsonists. A $20,000 reward is offered for information leading to the arrest of the guilty party. State Fire Marshal John Oxendine offered a reward of $10,000, and Claxton Poultry owner Norman Fries upped the offer another $10,000, a spokesperson said. The fire was brought under control about midnight, but some firefighters remained at the site Saturday. Management staffers worked through the weekend assessing damage.

The 400 or so of Claxton Poultry's 1800 workers who were on duty at the time of the fire were praised by officials for their orderly and rapid evacuation. These 400 workers, plus employees scheduled for the cleanup shift Friday, will be paid for the full day's work, officials declared.

Claxton Poultry officials praised area law enforcement agencies and firefighters from 13 jurisdictions for fast response and for managing public safety and traffic control. Fighting the flames were fire departments from Claxton, Greenville, Reidsville, Collins, Metter, Register, Nevills, Statesboro, North Bryan County, South Bryan County, Hagan, Daisy, and the Georgia State Prison. Mop-up operations continued at the plant on Saturday. The fire was detected by the company's automatic alarm at 7:46 p.m., an official said. The alarm is set to sound in the Claxton Fire Department at the same time it alerts personnel in the plant. No casualties were reported, but one employee was treated for minor smoke inhalation and released.

Claxton Poultry has been largely free of serious accidents since its inception, except for 1973. An explosion on Thanksgiving Day caused by excess pressure in a city natural gas line killed three people and destroyed the original plant. In a separate accident, Emory Godbee of Greenville, former owner of Coastal Broilers, was killed at his plant August 22, 1964. It was reported that a pilot light on a gas steam boiler was not working and repairmen had been called. When the repairmen failed to arrive on time, Godbee tried to fix it. The explosion followed, blasting a large piece of steel against his head, killing him instantly. At that time, the Greenville Hatchery was not a part of Claxton Poultry. Mr. Fries bought the Greenville operation later. Hence, the Godbee accident is not charged to Claxton Poultry.

Mandatory evacuation of the population for a radius of one-half mile from the burning area was ordered about 10:30 p.m. last Friday night. Inmates from the two state detention centers in Claxton were bused from the area and housed overnight at Georgia State Prison and other prisons in Tattnall County. The inmates returned to Claxton when the evacuation order was lifted Saturday. The evacuation was ordered as a precautionary measure due to the fire's proximity to an ammonia storage tank. Claxton Poultry uses ammonia in refrigerating and cooling poultry in the processing and storage stages.

The box room where the fire started contained thousands of wax-impregnated cardboard boxes and plastic boxes, said spokesman Tobin Spier.

"Cardboard, wax, and plastic are highly flammable,"

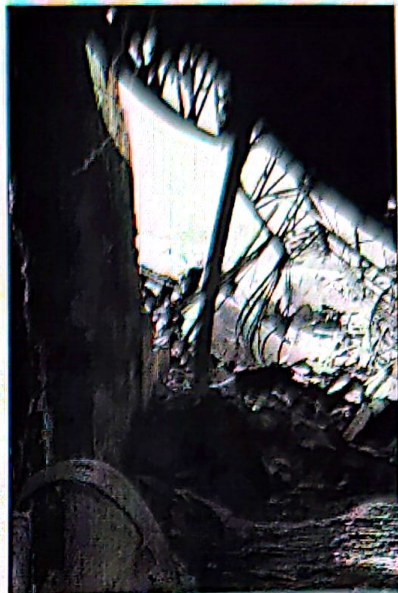

Tobin declared. "If anyone wanted to start a fire in this plant, the box room is the place to start it. The only thing else in here is steel and water."

The incident remains under investigation.

Norman W. Fries of Savannah founded, in 1949 in his hometown, the firm now known as Claxton Poultry. Ten years later he moved the company to Claxton. Through years of new foundations, mergers, and buy-outs, Fries became the owner of a fully autonomous poultry industry. Egg production, hatchery, feed mill, growout, processing plant, and distribution are all under the single ownership of Norman Fries.

The George's innovator started in the poultry business at age 11, working for his father in Savannah. The elder Mr. Fries raised and butchered chickens. Young Norman peddled the birds on his bicycle and sold them in his neighborhood. Today, his firm processes 1.3 million broilers every week.

The chicks are hatched in three Greenville hatcheries and raised by 200 farmers who contract with Claxton Poultry. In addition to 1800 employees in Claxton and Greenville, Fries announced in August 1999 a $50 million expansion of Claxton Poultry to Waycross, Blackshear, and Surrency, hiring 1150 workers. The company will contract with about 150 farmers in the new area. Construction is expected to start in the third quarter of this year. Operations in Claxton and Greenville will not be

Claxton Poultry exports some of its products, but its marketing area is principally the Southeastern United States.

Norman Fries, through Claxton Poultry, provides a scholarship program for graduates of area high schools. The company serves as a major contributor to food banks throughout Southeast Georgia and supports local human and social service organizations in many ways.

The president of Claxton Poultry is Jerry Lane, named to that post by Mr. Fries two years ago.

Norman Fries and his wife, Doris, live in Claxton.

GCA holds first homecoming event

Glennville Christian Academy (GCA) hosted its first homecoming on January 28. The big day followed an exciting week of spirit-filled activities, with classes competing with each other in dress-up contests, penny wars, classroom and door decorating, and cheers at a pep rally on Friday.

The best part of homecoming was the Homecoming Court, with the highlight the crowning of Carrie Myles and Joseph Riollano as queen and king. This is also a first for GCA. Students in each grade were asked to vote for a representative from their grade who displayed outstanding Christian character. Representatives were as follows:

K4 - Amanda Blocker and Christopher Crews; K5 - Haley Reddish and Ryan Dasher; First Grade - Chaley Stanfield and Travis Crews; Second Grade - Ashley Blocker and Matthew Sutton; Third Grade - Crystal Blocker and Akeem Brewton; Fourth Grade - Annie Sutton and Dillon Brown; Fifth Grade - Kristen Hancock and Terrence Tillman; Sixth Grade - Danielle Walker and Aaron Kicklighter; Seventh and Eighth Grades - Sara Crabtree and Ansley Ammons; Ninth and Tenth Grades - Dana Mixon and Michael Supp; and Eleventh Grade - Denell Dubberly and Brad Wilkes.

All seniors were in the court. Vince Beatty, Amanda Daughtry, Abby Ellyson, Sam Idkins, Jessica Holloway, David Smith, and Brad Wayne.

The week's finale was the homecoming game and events on Monday. Bible Baptist Raiders of Statesboro brought their boys' JV Varsity (JV) and Varsity Basketball Teams to take on the Glennville Christian Minutemen. Although the Raiders fought hard, they were unable to defeat the Minutemen. The JV Minutemen took the Raiders with a score of 65-45. The Varsity team defeated the Raiders with a score of 72-36. These wins advance both GCA teams to GCAA State Playoffs.

Other homecoming activities included a "Kiss the Pig" contest, where students cast their vote for their favorite teacher. Mrs. Beth Moyer, third grade teacher, was the lucky teacher who won the honor of kissing "Wilbur."

The Junior and Senior classes were presented with the Spirit Stick for earning the most points during Spirit Week.

A Mini-Basketball game was hosted for all in attendance who were in second grade or under. This game was exciting, fast paced, and held everyone's attention. Jaron Williford, second grade, was the first to make a basket.

Septic tank regulations tightened

Tattnall County Environmental Health Specialist III Jimmy Durrence surprised the County Commissioners Monday with the information that state regulations on septic tanks have superseded the county regulations.

In essence, state regulations prohibit placement of a septic tank for a dwelling if the property size is less than one half acre if supplied by a public water system and less than one acre if supplied by a non-public water system. This refers to individual lots and subdivisions for stick built homes and manufactured housing, including locations within a mobile home park.

If a lot already has a septic tank on it for a dwelling and the lot size is less than one half acre, the provision does not apply. "Existing septic tanks on lots are grandfathered in," said Durrence.

Durrence reported that in 1999 the Tattnall County Health Dept. administered over 1200 septic tank inspections. These included inspections, re-inspections, site location, permitting, and verification of existing systems. Of these, 236 refer to septic tank installations.

The state regulations also provide for a connection to a public water supply system if available within 1000 feet of the proposed subdivision or mobile home park. "Where a public water supply will be utilized, lots shall be sized to accommodate individual wells," says the state regulations.

For questions regarding these state septic tank regulations, contact Mr. Durrence at the Tattnall County Health Dept. at 557-7850.

THE WINSTON CUP CIRCUIT

The No Bull Five

The five Daytona 500 drivers eligible in the Winston No Bull Five program are the top-five finishers from October's Winston 500 at Talladega: Dale Earnhardt, Dale Jarrett, Ricky Rudd, Ward Burton and Kenny Wallace.

The five races in the program are the Daytona 500, Chesapeake 400 at Las Vegas, Coca-Cola 600 at Charlotte, Chevrolet Monte Carlo 400 at Richmond and the Winston 500. In each event, if any of the top-five finishers from the previous event win, both the driver and a lucky fan will receive $1 million from Winston.

The fans eligible in the Daytona 500 have been selected: Betty Blackman of Dillon, S.C.; Melissa Brown of Pittsburgh; John Williams of Las Vegas; Loretta Schaefer of Cliffside Park, N.J.; and Marcus Follmann of West Jefferson, Ohio.

Jeff Gordon has won the $1 million bonus three times, Jeff Burton twice and Jarrett once.

Jarrett and Rudd are the only drivers competing in both the Daytona bonus program and the Bud Shootout.

THE WINSTON CUP SERIES

WHAT: Bud Shootout
WHERE: Daytona International Speedway, Daytona Beach, Fla.
WHEN: Sunday, Feb. 13
DEFENDING CHAMPION: Mark Martin

FORMAT: 25 laps, with a mandatory green-flag pit stop required between laps 10 and 12.

THE FIELD: Fourteen drivers are eligible, based on winning poles during the 1999 season. They are:

WHO'S NOT IN? Dale Earnhardt, who has won the Shootout six times. Terry Labonte, Dale Jarrett and Jeff Burton are among those who would have to win the qualifier in order to compete in the Shootout.

NOTES

SCALPERS BEWARE: The Bristol, Tenn., City Council recently passed a resolution to make ticket scalping illegal.

"We have to decide whether Bristol is a place that welcomes race fans," said Mayor John Givens. "When race fans get ripped off, Bristol's reputation goes down the drain."

SPECIAL PAINT: Ward Burton's Pontiac will carry a predominantly white scheme in the Bud Shootout. The one-time only paint job will honor the dealers of Caterpillar, Burton's sponsor.

SNOWMOBILE FOR MONEY: Ricky Craven's annual Snowmobile Ride for Charity, held for the third year in a row in Greenville, Maine, raised $73,470 for several charities.

PROFILE

Ken Schrader

Ken Schrader is "very happy" with his test speed in his Pontiac.

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

In recent years, Ken Schrader has driven for three different teams in a quest to return to victory lane in the Winston Cup Series for the first time since June 2, 1991, when he won at Dover Downs.

For nine years (1988-96), Schrader drove for Hendrick Motorsports. He then switched to Andy Petree Racing, where he competed in 1997-99. This year he moves to MB2 Motorsports's No. 36 Pontiac, where Ernie Irvan drove until his retirement last year and Jerry Nadeau finished out the season.

Schrader was rookie of the year in 1985 and has won four races and 23 poles during his Cup career. HOMETOWN: Born in St. Louis, Mo., raised in Featon, Mo., resides in Concord, N.C.

AGE: 44
SPOUSE: Ann
CHILDREN: Dorothy Lynn (10), Sheldon Bradley (4)

CAR: No. 36 MB2's Pontiac Grand Prix, owned by Thomas Beard, Read Morton and Nelson Bowers.

CAREER STATISTICS: 458 starts, 4 wins, 64 top-five finishes, 169 top-10 finishes, almost $14 million in earnings.

FIRSTS: Start (July 14, 1984, at Nashville), pole

(March 27, 1987, at Darlington), win (July 13, 1988, at Talladega).

WHAT DO YOU REMEMBER ABOUT YOUR ROOKIE SEASON IN JUNIE DONLAVEY'S FORD? "Junie really took a chance on me in 1985, but I think, when the season was over, we were both proud of what we accomplished. For a rookie driver and an unsponsored team to make every race, much less win the rookie title, was a huge accomplishment for all of us. The sport, as well as myself, has come a long way since 1985."

YOU HAD THE FASTEST TEST SPEED FOR A PONTIAC DRIVER. "Our test session went really well at Daytona, and I'm very happy with the Pontiac. We made some great strides in our first two test sessions together, and Sammy (Johens, the crew chief) has had a very productive off-season in the shop."

HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT GOING 15 SEASONS WITHOUT MISSING A RACE? "Having 15 years of consecutive starts is nice, but I don't look at that in the big picture. I look at the next race and the next round of qualifying. I won't be happy unless we are sitting on the front row at Daytona. There is so much going on during Speedweeks that it gives you a lot of time to learn about your car and really jell and come together as a team."

Fans rate Bristol's August night race as top even in poll

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

A NASCAR Online poll of more than 45,000 fans rated Bristol Motor Speedway's August night race as the event they would choose to attend if they could attend just one in 2000.

The GoRacing.com 500 drew the ballots of 39.3 percent of the 45,758 respondents, followed by the Daytona 500 (28.7 percent), Coca-Cola 600 (11.2), Brickyard 400 (7.2), Pepsi 400 at Daytona (5.9) and Southern 500 (3).

EIGHTH ROOKIE: Junie Donlavey will attempt to make Ed Berrier the eighth entrant in the rookie-of-the-year race. Donlavey recently announced he plans to enter every race with Berrier, who won a BGN race at Hickory in 1998. Berrier joins Dale Earnhardt Jr., Matt Kenseth, Scott Pruett, Dave Blaney, Mike Bliss, Stacy Compton and Jeff Fuller.

DON'T TINKER WITH A GOOD THING: In 15 years of full-time Winston Cup competition, Ken Schrader has never missed a race. "I'm actually pretty hesitant to talk about any kind of streak, especially one that refers to how many years I've gone without winning a race," said Schrader. "I'm not normally a superstitious person, but sometimes you just don't want to test fate."

In 433 Cup starts, Schrader has won four races and 23 poles.

SATELLITE SHOP: The Wood Brothers, whose primary race shop is located in Stone, Va., have opened another shop in Mooresville dedicated to sheet metal and aerodynamic enhancement.

NEW MOORE: A former crew chief and the team's shock engineer, will head the effort. The Mooresville shop will produce bodies for the Cup Ford of Elliott Sadler and the Hooters Pro Cup car to be driven this year by Joe Wood, the grandson of Glen Wood, who began driving for the team during the 1940s.

TWO DOUBLE ZERO: Tim Federwa, tall just 32, will make the 200th start of his Busch Grand National career in the NAPA 300 on Feb. 19 at Daytona.

"That's a lot of races," said Federwa. "An almost unbelievable number of miles around a lot of tracks, when you sit back and think about it." Federwa debuted in the series in 1992 and became a regular the following year. He has won three times.

Who's Hot... Who's Not

■ HOT: Scott Pruett turns heads with his test speeds.

■ NOT: Pontiacs lag in preseason speeds.

Courtship and Weddings

Valentine's Day

A special day set aside to honor lovers has been celebrated for hundreds of years.

The custom might have started in ancient Rome. At a special celebration, young men would draw the name of their girlfriend for a year out of a hat.

We really don't know exactly who St. Valentine was. One story is that he was a priest who was jailed for not worshipping Roman gods. Another story is that he was a priest who married couples against the ruler's wishes.

As early as the 1400s, people in England were sending love notes on Valentine's Day. At first, valentines were handmade. Machine-made valentines became available in the mid 1800s.

Courtship

Courtship is a new idea. For centuries, families arranged weddings. (When couples would not even meet until their wedding day.) Arranged marriages are still made in some parts of the world.

Dowries

For hundreds of years, a family was expected to give the groom a dowry, or a certain amount of money when he married a daughter. The husband-to-be would have to declare what property he received. This is still done in some countries today.

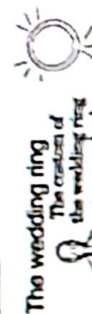

Good luck

There is an old English custom of having a bride wear a suspension, a type of rain, in her shoe for good luck. Brides should also wear:

- something old,
- something new,
- something borrowed,
- and something blue.

It was also supposed to be good luck for the bride to carry a bundle of laundry in her wedding trousseau. Some brides today still believe in this custom.

The wedding ring
The custom of the wedding ring goes way back to Roman times. The circle is a symbol of eternity. Brides and grooms usually wear three rings on the fourth finger of their left hand. This custom started because people believed that a vein that runs through this finger goes directly to the heart.

Throwing rice

Today many guests blow bubbles in the direction of the bride and groom as they leave the church. During this was supposed to bring a couple lots of children. This proved to be very funny, so people started throwing rice instead. This was very bad for birds because they would feed up when they drank water after eating dry rice. Some people are often used instead today.

Old shoes

It has been the custom to tie old shoes to the back of the carriage or car on the married as the married couple drove away on their honeymoon. These old shoes were a symbol that families and friends approved the match.

The broomstick

Jumping over a broomstick is an old African-American custom that is sometimes practiced today. After the couple say "I do," two friends hold a broom a little off the ground and the couple hold hands and jump over it. This is a symbol of their starting off life together.

A noisy party

The "harlem" (shout-a-wo!) is an old custom from France. Friends would find out when the newly married couple were spending the night and gather together their windows to sing, blow horns, and make lots of noise to keep them awake.

Poem for sale

In Shakespeare's time, many people could not read. A bridegroom had to have a poet to write a poem for him. The poet would recite the poem to the bride and groom.

Romantic Ideas Through the Ages

Courtship and Weddings

The Mini Page celebrates Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, with a story about courtship and wedding customs.
While most of our readers are much too young to make wedding plans, it's fun to see how things have changed over the ages.

Courtship

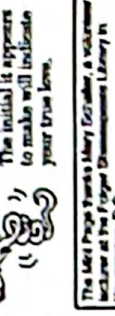

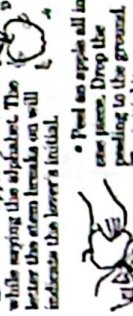

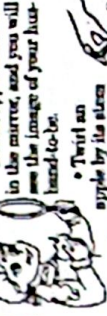

When a young lady was flirting, how she waved or snuggled or held her fan might signal how she felt about an admirer. What flower a sister sent to a sweetheart might also signal feelings. A rose would say, "I love you." A jonquil might mean, "Do you love me?" A snapdragon might signal "no," which flower you sent.

Whom will I marry?

For centuries, girls have used many ways to find out whom they might marry. Here are some old beliefs. Maybe you might like to try some of them!

- Eat an apple and look in the mirror, and you will see the image of your husband-to-be.
- Twist an apple by its stem while saying the alphabet. The letter the stem breaks on will indicate the lover's initial.
- Peel an apple all in one piece. Drop the peeling to the ground. The initial it appears to make will indicate your true love.

The Mini Page thanks Mary G. Golder, a volunteer teacher at the Folger Shakespeare Library in New York City, for her help.

Hope chest

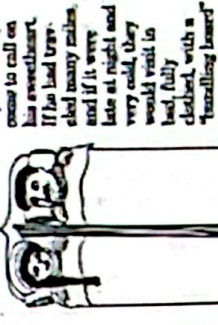

At an early age, girls would start collecting sheets, pillowcases, tablecloths and underwear to use after they married. They put the items in a special chest called a "hope chest."

Love knots

Hundreds of years ago, in the 1500s through the 1700s, love knots were popular because they look like a number 8 turned sideways. The sideways number 8 is a symbol of eternity. Brides used to wear dresses covered with love knots or bows. After the wedding, guests might snip them off as souvenirs.

Bundling boards

Early American settlers had a custom called "bundling." On occasion, a boyfriend might come to call on his sweetheart. If he had traveled many miles and if it were late at night and very cold, they would wait to be fully clothed, with a "bundling board" between them.

PCA Patriots get ready for 4-AAA Region Tournament

by Abigail Durrence

This week, the Pinewood Christian Academy (PCA) Varsity basketball squads closed out their regular season. The Lady Patriots ended with a bang, adding two more wins to their now 20-3 record. The Patriots split with their competition, recording a win and a loss.

On Tuesday, February 1, Pinewood hosted the Wildcats of Westminster. The Lady Patriots tipped off first at 6 p.m. PCA took control from the start and dominated over the Lady Wildcats for the entire four quarters. The PCA ladies were up by 19 points at the half, and, in the third quarter, they outscored Westminster, 23-9. The final score was PCA 69, WPS 32. Junior starter Kelli Lynn led Pinewood with 25 points, and junior starter Casey Ellis had 11 points. Abby Conley and Abigail Durrence combined for 20 points and Amy Conley had 9. The Conley sisters had 8 rebounds apiece.

On Friday, the PCA teams loaded the bus for Milledgeville for the last Region matchup of the season against the John Milledge Academy Trojans. The Lady Patriots had their hands full the first half and were on top just 20-17 at the end of two quarters. Used Cars To Be Sold At $55⁰⁰

SAVANNAH, GA

Chris Hafer, general manager for Savannah Mitsubishi, has just announced plans to hold a special used car and truck event with used cars and trucks starting at fifty-five dollars and up on Saturday, February 12, 2000. Savannah Mitsubishi will offer used cars and trucks priced as low as fifty-five dollars at Savannah Mitsubishi on Abercorn. According to Mr. Hafer, recent sales from the last few months has resulted in an overload of trade-in and lease returns, forcing this location to reduce their used car inventory. During this fifty-five dollar sale every car and truck will be sold for hundreds of thousands below the original price. Chris Hafer said, "Our customers should find these prices to be amazingly low." With many sales the prices of the vehicles are inflated, so the buyer pays too much. During this sale every car and truck is on sale at first bidding. It's the perfect opportunity to get a good quality used car or truck at the lowest possible price. The large car and truck inventory will be on display at 8:00 a.m. at Savannah Mitsubishi located at 8805 Abercorn. All vehicles will be open so that buyers can inspect the cars one hour before the sale begins at 9 a.m. on Saturday, February 12, 2000. Whoever is sitting behind the wheel when the prices are slashed on the windshield will be given first opportunity to purchase the vehicles at the sale price. This innovative approach to selling used vehicles will make it easy and quick for anyone in the market for a good used car or truck at very low prices with no hassles. There will be five to six business managers who can arrange low cost financing as well as many bank lenders on hand. We've got over 2 million dollars in inventory. Our total inventory will be close to 250 new and used cars and trucks. When our inventory has been reduced, we will remove the sale price and return to normal operations. Any questions may be directed to (912) 927-1212 at Savannah Mitsubishi. Sale Dates: Saturday, February 12, open at 8 a.m. starts at 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Horse Nutrition

Urea or other nonprotein nitrogen compounds may be used by the horse in limited amounts under certain conditions, but such compounds are not utilized as efficiently as dietary protein.

The horse can consume up to four times the amount of urea or nonprotein nitrogen a cow can. What this says is that you are more likely to see toxicity in a horse.

Commercial concentrates are formulated to meet the requirements of specific classes of horses. Supplementing ration is expensive and can cause serious nutrient imbalances. Supplements are needed only when concentrations of unknown quality are fed. If supplements are fed, feed according to the manufacturer's recommendations.

Do not feed minerals free-choice to horses and assume mineral requirements are being met. Horses do not possess normal wisdom for calcium and/or phosphorus, meaning they don't know which and how much of each mineral they require.

Decades of preservation techniques protect the Kennedy land and water

by Mitty Calloway

Cobb County native Handy Kennedy was honored as Tallapoosa County's 1999 Oppenheimer River Trail and Water Conservationist of the Year at last Thursday's banquet held at Tallapoosa County High School. The recognition of conservation practices in maintaining his 800-acre farm for 53 years earned Kennedy the prestigious award.

"I feel proud receiving the award after many years of dedication and hard work," said Kennedy.

The Kennedy farm is managed by Kennedy and his sons, Charles, Mike, and Ben. The farm consists of a cow-calf operation with about 200 head of cattle. The farm also includes about 100 acres of timber, some crops, and poultry.

Over the years the Kennedys have shifted their operation from row crop to beef cattle. They have a variety of crops including corn, soybeans, and cotton. The Kennedys have established a conservation program that includes riparian zone protection, wetland preservation, and timber management. They also have a variety of wildlife including deer, turkeys, and wild geese.

The Kennedys often hunt deer and turkeys on their land. They also use their land for timber. They have a variety of timber species including loblolly shortleaf, longleaf, and slash pine. They also have a variety of wildlife including deer, turkeys, and wild geese.

The Kennedys land also includes some fish ponds that they built and a pecan orchard.

"I am proud to be a part of this tradition that has been passed down in the family. I thank God for allowing us to have this farm, grow our crops, and live here," said Kennedy's son, Mike.

"We were raised on our own land and worked for what we had when I was growing up. Farming played an important role in my life," said the elder Kennedy.

He is the son of the late Marshall and Maudie Kennedy of Cobb County. He grew up on a 1900-acre farm with 12 brothers and sisters: Larkford Kennedy, Elizabeth Kennedy Collins, Izzy Lee Kennedy Collins, Rhydder Kennedy, Esther Kennedy Eason, Nora V. Kennedy, Mildred Kennedy Davis, and Burkett Kennedy, all of Cobb County; Marshall Kennedy, Jr., and Wilbert Kennedy of Florida; Geraldine Kennedy of Georgia; and North Kennedy and the late Tiedell Kennedy of Cobb County. Kennedy bought his 800-acre farm from his father when he became ill with cancer in 1967. "We farmed everything from cotton to cane, soybeans, plus raised hogs and cows," he said.

"I always told us to hold on to the land as long as we could and to take care of it," he added.

Kennedy built his brick home in 1973 when he and his wife of 45 years, the late Milton Jean Kennedy raised their 12 children: Dorothy Kennedy Byrd, Charles Kennedy, Cynthia Kennedy, Mike Kennedy,

Sessions Scholarship established at BPC

A Brown-Packer College (BPC) alumna has provided a gift, funding a scholarship and future campus construction.

Thomas "Tree" Sessions, Sr., who died July 30 at age 82, gave a gift to BPC through his estate.

The $25,000 gift will provide funding for a scholarship and also be used as the college begins construction on a new student activity center.

Sessions was born in Waynesboro, Georgia, and is a 1937 graduate of BPC where he earned an Associate's degree.

"As a student, Mr. Sessions demonstrated strong leadership traits that continued through his lifetime," said Dr. Sid Johnson, BPC's vice president for college administration. "He was president of the Student Body and the Glee Club. He was also president and debater for the Fyffian Society. Mr. Sessions also played football and ran track," he said.

Sessions continued his studies at the University of Georgia, where he received a bachelor's degree in 1939.

His wife, Elizabeth Kikard Sessions of Lexington, South Carolina, three children, a stepdaughter and five grandchildren survive Mr. Sessions.

"Voicing the community's opinions"

288-8588 (in town only)

"I have heard so many people talk of mismanagement either them or their family members have had at the hospital both good and bad. I just hope that whatever happens, happens for the best. And hopefully everyone in the county will be satisfied with the best of decisions."

"How could it be like to enter here for someone until the hospital is out of debt? I don't see business in anyway that I look at it."

"As regards to the big road hole behind the Flood Shop in the red light it's a shame that the city officials won't do anything about it. It really looks bad to the city's visitors."

"To the person who made the comment about the prehistoric mannequin on the corner, that mannequin has been standing there on that corner for over two years. Why is it bothering you? It's not like the mannequin has prehistoric mannequin."

"If the mannequin is such a nuisance in Greenville, will you please explain why it has received recognition by the Atlanta Commission and Channel 11 news? I think some one is in trouble because the mannequin looks better than them."

"This is in reference to the Board of Education not considering doing anything about the hospital. The Board of Education shouldn't have to worry about that problem. A lot of money should come out of it. I think it would be more for the Board of Education to consider helping. And as for the Commissioners, I seriously wish they would help out a little more because having a hospital is a good thing."

"Why does Emmitt Lantry need the V.I. serve a when we don't have a hospital in the county to take the people to?"

"In reference to the article about raising the sales tax to ten cents to help the hospital, I think it would be a good idea because someone would be able to take part in it."

"Businesses complain about people not shopping in Greenville or Greenville. If they would have one day out of the week for senior citizens, they would get more business. We senior citizens need help. Piggly Wiggly has the PFC card but that isn't enough. We need something else besides that."

"About the uniforms for students, I think that the expense on per every would be greater because you not only have to buy the uniform but also the everyday school clothes."

"I would like to say how disappointed I am with the PTO of Greenville Elementary School. I do not think the PTO should punish all the kids that want to be in the School's Bands. Current just because the judges said the PTO made an error. The girls that this happened to had to suffer enough because of this error—the whole student body should not have to suffer also. Several of these little girls (and boys) look forward to this program every year, as well as some parents. This project did raise some money for the PTO."

"To the person who made the comment about the so called drug boys standing on Emory Road, how do you know that they are drug dealers? These boys own a female enough to be able to stand in the parking lot in front of the Movie Gallery or park their cars in the Piggly Wiggly parking lot. So please don't be so quick to judge people. For instance, if you were quoted on Emory Road, would you like it for someone to say that you were ever there looking for drugs?"

"For the people who decided to burn the wounded area of the property Monday evening. Next time will you please consider the elderly people in people with respiratory problems before you pollute the air. My family and I didn't appreciate having to breathe in all that smoke that night and the next day in our home. Did you even have a permit to cause such a riot?"

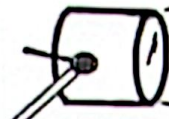

"This is to the person who made the comment about the mannequin. Maybe you should focus your attention on more important stuff like the hospital or school reform. Listen up, you are starting to sound like the Grinch."

"I'm looking for the person who put an ad in the paper about having a clown at birthday parties a few months ago. Will you please contact the Sentinel? I'm interested in hiring you."

"This is for the person who sat on the fire west of Church Street and east of Hwy. 144. Thanks a lot, we have endured 20 hours of smoke, and there were times when we couldn't even see across the street. Our homes and cars were covered in soot. I understand you didn't even have a city permit."

"We are blaming the wrong people for the hospital's demise. A chairman and four commissioners cannot be expected to save a major ward and undo 25 years of mismanagement. The property owners that are helping the hospital will bankrupt the county just need to be paid and wait until their taxes get up because the money the county is going to lose is going to be enormous. Children will leave our schools because their parents lose their jobs and have to move. This will mean less money from the state. The grants and services these same parents will buy in another county will come out of the SPLOST for the school renovations. We will have to buy more ambulances to transport patients to other hospitals and that money will come from taxes being raised and not revenue generated. We each need to look at ourselves in the mirror and point our fingers in our own faces."

Please make your comments short, just a sentence or two, and record to community, county, city, or national issues. Please don't make a personal and comments considered only for printing will not make it into the Sentinel. The opinions expressed above are submitted by readers and are not necessarily the opinion of The Greenville Sentinel.

Insure your financial future with New York Life

Insurance is not something purchased to be used today but to be received in the not distant future. It is there to relieve some of the burdens that life throws out way either for the policy holder or for their family and children some of the financial obligations.

Charles Rogers, a 1991 graduate of Georgia Southern University, has been in the insurance business for just over five years. Prior to that, he was employed in a sales related profession and enjoyed working with people.

The opportunity to help others ultimately led him into the insurance business.

He began with New York Life in Greenville under the direction of Kevin O'Dell and the late C. E. DeLoach, who had been in the insurance profession for 46 years.

O'Dell has been a mentor to Charles. O'Dell has over 15 years' experience and was instrumental in getting him in the field.

Rogers is the son of T. C. and Rose Rogers of Greenville and has one sister and brother-in-law, Ron and Robin Bell, and a new niece, Carolyn.

On March 11, Charles will marry Anna Dawson, the daughter of Eddie and Luby Dawson.

New York Life has been in business over 110 years and is one of the top rated insurance companies in the nation for its financial strength and assets. When choosing an insurance carrier, these are the most important factors to consider.

Charles is able to write a variety of insurance policies to meet the needs of a single person, young family, or older person.

Two types of life insurance policies are available, depending on the person's needs. Permanent insurance offers whole life and universal life and Term insurance is available on a 3-year or 10-year basis through New York Life.

"I sit down with the potential customer and try to help them determine what their best needs are and assist them through the process," said Rogers.

A single or young family usually purchases life insurance to protect the remaining family members while the older policy holder could purchase a policy for the same reason or to add to existing planning.

"It's never too late to start a life insurance policy," said Rogers. "It also gladly answers any questions anyone may have on their other policies."

Living Term Care is a fairly new insurance policy used to protect the assets of a person who can no longer care for their own basic needs. The policy provides for a daily benefit (ranging from $100 to $500) to pay for nursing home care or a private care person.

Fixed annuities can also be invested through New York Life with guaranteed rates from one to three years.

"I advise anyone to compare their CD rates to our annuity rates and see if they could be making more money through New York Life," said Rogers.

ance company the customer wishes. Disability pays a benefit of five years or up to age 65.

Individual or Group Health Insurance can also be written through a variety of carriers.

Some of the most common that Charles has written include Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Humana, Celine, Principle, and John Alden. Policies can be written for the individual, family, or groups from two and up. Any health insurance policy can be developed from the PPO plan that includes a doctor's office co-pay up to a plan that includes prescription drug costs.

Charles Rogers invites you to give him a call at 779-4312 or 667-1010 to discuss the benefits of a planned insurance policy for yourself and your family.
